

Masahiko Gemma

Visiting Professor of Applied Economics

Education

M.A. / Ph.D. (1989) - University of Minnesota (USA)

B.S. - Tokyo University of Agriculture and Technology

Teaching and Research Interests

Teaching: Economic Development

Research Areas: Producer and Consumer Issues

Academic Appointments

1993-Present Waseda University

1991-1993 Yokohama City University

1989-1991 International Development Center of Japan

Selected academic papers

Gemma, M.(2022), Global Food Security, and Economic and Agricultural Development, Chapter 13, in Sustainable Development Disciplines for Society, Springer, 221-229
(https://doi.org/10.1007/978-981-19-5145-9_13)

Smith, R. and M. Gemma, Chapter 8 Valuing Ecosystem Services in Macroeconomic Settings, in Handbook on the Economics of Ecosystem Services and Biodiversity, Springer, May 2014, p.130-p.152

Smith, R., M. Gemma, K. Palanisami, Profit Based Efficiency Measures, with an Application to Rice Production in Southern India, Journal of Agricultural Economics, Agricultural Economic Society,

Volume 62.2, p.340-p.356, June, 2011

M. Voros, M. Gemma, Intelligent Agrifood Chains and Networks : Current Status, Future Trends & Real-life Cases in Japan, in Intelligent Agrifood Chains and Networks, Blackwell, P.227-p.247, March 2011